- Prepare and follow up proposals
- Negotiate price and conditions and close the deal
- Developing target marketing and online strategies to drive leads, including social media campaigns, (virtual) trade shows participation, etc.
- Coordinate with global sales channels to expand customer reach and drive sales through company's extended global network as well as through resellers
- Maintain and improve internal sales tools and procedures to ensure efficient and effective selling effort

Job requirements:

- Bachelor's degree or higher in technology (mechanics, electronics, software, etc), preferably with a follow-up study or course in a commercial direction.
- Experience or affinity with mechatronic systems
- Fluent in English, spoken and written, and preferably proficient in another language
- Several years of sales experience in an international high-tech B2B environment preferably based in the Netherlands. Must have experience working in the European Union.
- Marketing experience to target and develop new leads
- Experience developing and maintaining on-line content, e.g. social media
- Flexible working attitude
- Some travel required

E2M offers:

- An open, modern working environment, using short communication lines.
- Possibilities for growth in responsibilities and personal development.
- International working environment.
- Working with interesting high-tech products.
- Fun team that want to learn and grow.

At E2M Technologies BV you'll get a temporary contract for a year, which will be changed into a permanent contract upon good performance. The monthly salary depends on the function and your working experience.
